ABOUT

I am Lydia, a singer, voice coach, and singing teacher.

I embarked on my journey as a singer and presenter when I was young. My passion for the natural power of our voices took me first to sing and write music for radio programs and finally to host and produce them. The voice has evolved into my primary tool for performing, mentoring, and guiding aspiring singers. I have also delved into Corporate Communication, Digital Marketing, and Event Management. Hosting events remains a significant part of my work.

I am currently immersed in the world of Voice, studying for a Master's Degree in Vocal Pedagogy at the Voice Study Centre, which is linked to the University of Wales Trinity Saint David.

APPROACH

My teaching approach provides a precise, rigorous academic method rooted in empathy and tailored practices. Group workshops that introduce different subjects also fit my approach. This approach is thorough and honours each individual's voice and personal and professional journeys. I emphasize attentive listening to comprehend needs, fears, and aspirations, always from empathy, encouragement, and nonjudgment.

My classes are in Catalan, Spanish, and English. I use the piano as the instrument of choice for practice and playbacks for the student's chosen repertoire.

“Those who wish to sing always find a song.” (Swedish Proverb)

CLASSES

● L'Espai de la Veu

L'Espai de la Veu is a room of one's own but also a mobile space for group workshops on various subjects. 1:1 online classes are also available.

● 5 Fundamental Principles of Vocal Practice

- It is essential to set a specific goal for each session.
- Three seconds are required between each exercise to consolidate the practice.
- The practice is adapted to the vocal range of each student/participant.
- Warmups are non-negotiable!
- Drink up! Always have water on hand.

WORKSHOPS

I specialise in implementing pedagogical approaches to assist in handling vocal transformations due to hormonal changes and life shifts, delving into our identity as vocalists, averting compensatory injuries, and managing stage fright while performing and addressing audiences.

And indeed, I teach Singing for Joy.

Proposed Workshops

- Vocal Technique for a Healthy and Healing Singing
- Managing Stage Fright.
- The Singing and Speaking Voice in Perimenopause and Menopause.
- The Trans and Diverse Voice: Affirmation and Vocal Training
- Golden Singers: Never Stop Singing

FOR COMPANIES

Numerous studies unveil the socially unifying and harmonious influence of Singing; it delivers swifter and more efficient advantages in team dynamics and connection, due to the renowned "icebreaker effect". Collaborating on a song within a group or arranging an open mic session is greatly cherished by its participants.
